SELF-STUDY ASSESSMENT WORKSHEET
FOR ACCREDITATION
CONCURRENT ENROLLMENT PROGRAM ENDORSEMENT (CEP)

SELF-STUDY PREPARATION:

A concurrent enrollment program intending to apply for NACEP initial accreditation or re-accreditation should conduct a self-study one to two years in advance of submitting an accreditation application. A self-study provides an opportunity for concurrent enrollment programs to become more innovative, strengthen policies and practices, and institute greater transparency and consistency. The self-study concludes once the concurrent enrollment program is able to ensure and document that all NACEP standards are being met.

During the self-study, programs typically assemble a team of individuals involved in concurrent enrollment from a variety of perspectives, such as, program staff, college faculty, registrar's and processing offices, academic affairs, institutional research, high school partners, etc., to analyze how the program ensures they meet NACEP standards. Throughout the study, the concurrent enrollment program documents how it implements the practices and policies described in all of NACEP's CEP standards and identifies the evidence and documentation necessary to complete the accreditation application.

UTILIZE THESE RESOURCES:

- Accreditation Guide for Peer Reviewers and Applicants (CEP) includes the NACEP standards, required evidence, standard commentary, the range of acceptable practices, frequently asked questions, and guidance for assembling an organized accreditation application. The use of this guide is imperative for the self-study.
- Attending an Accreditation Institute, NACEP National Conference, or webinars related to content regarding NACEP standards for CEP or viewing archived conference sessions and webinars via the NACEP membership dashboard.
- Collecting documentation, resources, and examples of best practices from national peer practitioners via the NACEP members-only listserv.
- Refer and review in its entirety, the "Accreditation" menu on NACEP's webpage for resources, such as guides, issue briefs, and step by step information regarding accreditation under the "Application Process & Resources" tab. Also, under the "Accreditation" menu refer to the Evaluation Resources Toolkit tab.
- Access the Resource Center via the "Resources" menu on NACEP's webpage.
